PROFILE

Well organized and creative in accounting, I have published extensively on topics related to accounting, including the impact of financial performance disclosure on loan granting decisions in banks, comparison between statutory and Sharia decisions in Islamic banks, studies on taxes and accounting information systems, and many more topics. In the field of accounting. My research has appeared in a variety of prestigious publications, including the International Journal of Accounting and Financial Reporting, Scopus Impact Journals and the International Advanced Research Journal of Management and Business Studies. It is important to me that I meet students where they are, understand their unique learning needs, and adjust my teaching approach accordingly. I strive to create a culture in the classroom that values diversity, inclusion, and equality, where every student feels safe, assured of communicating up-to-date information of scientific and practical value, and linking the scientific curriculum to the practical.
